Mrs. Coffin Declared a Bankrupt.

Mrs. Grace Snell Coffin, noted for her matrimonial ventures, has filed a petition in bankruptcy in the United States court in Racine, Wis. Her liabilities are placed at $52,380, and she has no assets that are not exempt, except an interest which she claims in Chicago real estate left by her father, Amos J. Snell.

Mrs. Coffin has announced that she will assist the receiver appointed to take charge of her affairs to recover this property, and declares that she is anxious to pay her debts out of it. The interest which she claims is valued at $500,000. Mrs. Coffin's heaviest creditors are the Continental bank Chicago, $3,000; Henrietta Snell estate, $3,000, and A. J. Stone, $10,000.

THE RECIPROCITY CONVENTION URGES CONGRESS ON PROTECTION

A Department of Commerce and Industry the Head of Which Shall be a Member of the Cabinet.

The past week in Washington has witnessed the assembling and adjournment of the Reciprocity Convention. The Convention passed a resolution urging upon Congress the maintenance of the principal of protection and the opening up of foreign markets by reciprocity, "only where it can be done without injury to any of our home interests of manufacturing, commerce or farming."

Other resolutions urge the establishment of a "Department of Commerce and industry, the head of which shall be a member of the President's Cabinet," and the appointment of a "reciprocity commission" as a bureau of that department.

There is wide diversity of opinion as to the results and effect of the convention, but a careful canvass among some of the leading republican statesmen warrants the assertion that they consider it demonstrated the fact that while reciprocity is the logical step of the government, the time is not yet ripe for it; but that the business men of this country are essentially practical and little given "to chasing theories" and that as soon as a shrinkage of exports renders reciprocity advisable they will be ready to endorse it.

From the west came continued reports of a demand for immediate reciprocity and revision of the Dingley Bill, Governor-elect Cummings, of Iowa, being the latest caller at the White House to urge caution in the "let well enough alone" policy. Some few even go so far as to say that in the death of William McKinley tariff reform lost one of the best friends it ever had, but even in the West the sentiment is divided and unless strong pressure is brought to bear in favor of free sugar from Cuba, there is little likelihood of any changes.

The President's chief counselors have advised him that he will satisfy the people if he can prevail upon Congress to perfect the anti-trust law and to establish the department of Commerce and Industry, and it is the belief that this action will be accepted as an evidence of good faith and that before the convening of another Congress the situation will have further developed to a point where "the plain duty" of Congress may be made clear.

I found a widely prevalent conviction among the delegates to the reciprocity convention that the business interests of the country demand some radical changes in the financial laws and that Secretary Gage was right in his proposition that "The present is the most propitious hour in all our history and as favorable as any period we may hope for in the future."

Speaking of this subject a leading member of the New York Chamber of Commerce, who requested that his name be withheld, said "There could be no better evidence of the necessity of a change than is afforded by the existing conditions. The Treasury is overflowing with a surplus of nearly one hundred and seventy-five millions, none of which is drawing a cent of interest. Of course entire co-operation of the Congressional Committees on Appropriations with the Secretary of the Treasury and a careful balancing of internal revenue with current expenses will obviate the continued accumulation of this immense non-interest bearing fund, but the most serious feature of the situation is that we are now buying bonds at 140 that we sold at 104, and notwithstanding the fact that Mr. Gage is purchasing bonds with a view to maintaining an 'easy' money market, gold is being shipped abroad at the rate of $12,000,000 a week."

"Moreover these very bonds that are now being bought up were sold to induce the bankers to increase the circulating medium by means of increased issues of bank notes and now the banks are selling these bonds and retiring their circulation because the government's action has 'bulled' the market to an extent which makes this course more profitable than maintaining the circulation. The treasury is getting the short end of the deal, the banks the profits and Europe is drawing away the gold."

"To the McKinley administration accrued the glory of vanquishing the free silver fallacy. If, to the Roosevelt administration may be accorded the credit of remedying the remaining defects in our financial system the gratitude of our business men of America will know no bounds and the republican party will have demonstrated its right to administer the affairs of the country for a long time."

At the Cabinet meeting on Friday the President read the remainder of his message. Immediately following the meeting he directed that some minor changes be made and then announced that he considered the document completed. He entertained at luncheon Archbishop Corrigan of New York, and early in the afternoon embarked at the Navy Yard on the yacht Sylph and quietly sailed away. He was accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt and the children, with the exception of his eldest daughter, who is visiting in Boston. As no one would furnish any information as to the designation of the party speculation is of course rife. It has been suggested that possibly he intends to go to Philadelphia by water, as he has promised to witness the Thanksgiving foot ball game which will be played there between Annapolis and West Point, but it is more probable that he has gone down the river duck shooting.

Secretary of the Interior Hitchcock has today made public his annual report. Referring to the public lands he states that 19,562,788.30 acres have been disposed of in the last year. The total public lands aggregate 1,809,589,840 acres. He deplores the deforestation of these lands and calls attention to provisions of law which make it impossible for him to protect the forests, and finally recommends that the care of the forest reserves be transferred to the Agricultural Department.

The Indian problem is discussed at length. The total Indian population he places at 178,019 located on an aggregate area of 55,127,000 acres. This is exclusive of the New York Indians and the Five Civilized Tribes of the Indian Territory. He announces that hereafter a new policy will be adopted in the treatment of the Indians, all able-bodied men being required to contribute to their support by the cultivation of land which will be allotted to them. In this connection he urges that more manual instruction and less "higher education" be given the Indians in Government schools.

Hobos Thanksgiving Dinner.

It is announced via Kenosha that Hobo Park, just north of Winthrop Harbor was the scene of the most unique Thanksgiving dinner in Illinois, when sixty knights of the road gathered around a table loaded down with all the delicacies of the season. The throngs came in Wednesday evening. Early Thursday morning twelve turkeys, eight chickens, fourteen geese and a young pig were slaughtered for the feast. The fowls and pig were cooked in a great kettle hung over the fire and dinner was served at noon.

The dinner was presided over by Long Tom of Detroit, Mich., who is known as the head of the tramp organization in this part of the country. During the afternoon the men indulged in a general carousal, ten kegs of beer being consumed. The throngs were not in any way disturbed by the authorities from Kenosha or from Waukegan.

Their Suspensions are Aroused.

Nels Peterson, commonly known as Ed. Peters, has gone from his home in the Distmeyer flats, and from her home at 313 Clarke avenue, Waukegan. Mrs. August Hantz went at about the same time, and of them nothing has been seen since. The Hantz family formerly resided at Grayslake, and last summer Peters worked at that village and boarded with the Hantz family. Late Peters went to Waukegan and not long afterward the Hantz family sold their Grayslake place and moved to the intimacy of the families of Peters was a frequent visitor.

It is rumored that a party of capitalists are considering the plan of forming a syndicate and establishing an electric line between McHenry and Winnebago Bay, via of Johnsonburg, and also to connect with Volo and Waukegan.

The pupils of the Kenosha public schools have sent $28.80 to the chairman of the Memorial fund collection as their contribution for a memorial to the memory of President McKinley. This is commendable. It is expected that Kenosha will send at least $700 to the state treasurer of the fund.

The Waukegan Building and Loan Association will soon be a thing of the past. For a year the stock has gradually been retired until now little remains out and that little is soon also to be retired and the association's affairs closed, every shareholder having received every dollar of accrued earnings.

Elmer Johnson, 18 years old, is living at his home in Park Ave., Racine, Wis., with a bullet in his groin, the result of an accidental discharge of a thirty-two caliber revolver, in the hands of his 40 year old brother who didn't know it was loaded. The wound is dangerous but unless blood poisoning sets in, the physician hopes to save the boy's life.

The Silverlake correspondent in the Wilmet Agitator says: Wm. Hanneman, who deserted Wilmet for Antioch some time ago, still finds the country north of the state line full of attraction. "It is his custom to spend Sunday afternoon and evening at Silverlake. Last Monday he overslept, missed the train, and stood a fair chance of adding Monday to the above mentioned interval."

The Assembling of Congress.

Congress is now in session and will remain for at least six months. The republicans have, of course, a great advantage not only from its position as a majority party, but also from the extreme weakness of the opposition. Not only are the democrats without leaders but they have not even chosen the best of those whom they have to manage their battle for them.

Senator Knute Nelson, of Minnesota, has prepared a bill which he will soon introduce, to establish the new department of Commerce and Industries. Senator Nelson has discussed his bill with the President, who has approved it and will urge it upon Congress.

Secretary Root's recommendations in regard to Cuba have created a sensation. In effect they are a plea for prompt action looking to reciprocity with the island, on the ground that its peace, prosperity and independence are necessary to the United States and can only be attained by prompt commercial arrangements that will result to the island's benefit.

Burial Place of Carr.

The church of St. Peter and St. Paul has been the burial place of all Carrs since Peter the Great. The bones are placed in low tombs of marble without carving, or other ornamentation, so plain that they look like packing boxes, and they lie in rows in the order of their reign, awaiting the summons of the angel of resurrection to the bar of judgment. The last Carr buried was Alexander III, whose widow, Dowager Dagmar, sister of the Queen of England, keeps fresh flowers upon his tomb. He lies beside his father, Alexander II, in whose coffin was the hair of the Princess Dolgorouky, the tsar's favorite wife. She was considered the most beautiful woman in Europe, and her hair, which was of dark color, reached to her heels.

Special husband was living more than any other of the Carrs, and when he died, an evidence of her devotion to her husband was shown by her placing flowers upon his breast.

OBITUARY

Reva Lucile Hamlin was born July 1st,
1898, and died Nov. 30, 1901, age 2 years,
4 months and 29 days. During her brief life she had endeared herself to all who saw her, by her bright, sunshining face and cheerful ways. She was such a lovable child that none could see her but to love her. In the home that is left desolate, her place never can be filled, and none but the sorrowing parents can tell how lonely it is without their little sweetheart, as she was called, but God's will be done, and we must bow to His will and accept it for the best.
We know that she is better off, and with her Heavenly Father and the angels she will never know what care or sorrow is,
and some day we hope to meet her in that better land. She was stricken with that dread disease, diphtheria, November 8th, and all was done that could be done, but her work on earth was done, and her Father called her to Him. A nurse from the city had been in attendance for nearly two weeks and had just gone home, thinking baby was better, as she was, when she was stricken with paralysis which sometimes follows diphtheria, and she had lingered in that helpless state from 9:30 to 7:15 p.
m. when God called her. What made it seem worse was that no one was permitted to enter the house to see her, and the funeral was as private and quiet as possible, and all that was mortal of our darling
Reva was laid to rest in Angola cemetery
Sunday afternoon with prayer and a short talk by Rev. Hay. She leaves to mourn her loss her parents, grandparents and hosts of relatives and friends who will greatly miss her.

We had a little treasure once;
She was our joy and pride,
We loved her, ah! perhaps too well,
For soon she slept and died.
All is dark within our dwelling;
Lonely are our hearts today,
For the one we loved so dearly
Has forever passed away.

Alaska Not a Frozen Region.

It is a popular impression that Alaska is a frozen zone and that the soil is barren and worthless. This is a mistake. The sun is hot, the snow melts and enriches the earth and the soil in the valleys is fertile and productive. Wheat, corn, oats, barley, buckwheat, flaxseed and a considerable variety of vegetables and forage plants can be successfully grown in many parts of the territory.

Business that was booming at a terrific pace in Germany a year and a half ago is now lifeless. Speculators sunk all their capital in electrical shares and neglected all other lines of trade.

The Hungarian papers allege that King Alexander of Serbia desires to divorce Queen Draga in order that he may marry his sister-in-law, Helena Benyowitch, and react the accounts for Queen Draga's recent hysterical outbursts.

Serious fighting between the Colombian troops and the liberals has taken place at Ombra and Empemador, on the isthmus of Panama. One hundred and fifty men are reported killed on both sides. The Liberals retreated to their strong hold.

No scandal which has occurred for the past century has occasioned so much popular feeling as the semi-official announcement that Queen Wilhelmina of Holland will apply for a divorce from the prince consort on the grounds of cruelty and improper behavior.

IN GENERAL.

Captain Torrens of the steamship Agnes committed suicide on the voyage from Jamaica to Savannah, and was buried at sea.

Dun's Review of Trade says business conditions are perfect, with the exception of the scarcity of iron and the hampering of some industries by labor controversies.

After having been tied up for ten years, in accordance with the testator's stipulation, the estate of George Bancroft, the historian, valued at $600,000, will be distributed in a few days.

As summarized in the recommendations in the annual report of Gov. Brady the wants of Alaska are extension to it of all the federal land laws, survey of the lands for immediate settlement, a delegate in Congress without territorial organization, a cable between Alaska and the United States, representation at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition in 1903, the appointment of a commissioner of mining and enactment of a game law for the district. Gov. Brady says the agitation for a territorial form of government has gained little headway with those who have property to tax.

DEAD ARE IN ASHES

Bodies of Wreck Victims Consumed in Blazing Ruins.

HORROR ON WABASH

Crash, Explosions and Fire Add Terror to Smash Near Seneca, Mich.

Estimate of the Dead Is Eighty and the Fatalities May Yet Reach One Hundred—Corpses of the Victims Are Taken Out of Wreckage in Fragments Not Recognizable—Blame Placed on Engineer of the East-Bound Limited Train.

A whole car-load of Italian immigrants eaten up by fire as completely and almost as rapidly as straws in a furnace another can full of Italians squeezed together till it occupied a space less than eight feet long on the tracks, half its occupants killed and the car and the bodies then burned to ashes; these are the two central horrors in a fearful railroad wreck on the Wabash road near Seneca, Mich.

Though only fifteen persons are positively known to be dead, and very few bodies have been recovered, the full death list, it is thought, will prove to be very close to eighty. In addition seventy-five men, women and children were injured and some of them seriously. The dead and injured together will foot up about half of the 300 passengers who were carried into collision on the ill-fated train.

Italians Bound for Colorado.

The Italians, of whom there were about seventy-five, were all on their way to work in the coal mines at Trinidad, Colo. They were riding in two light, and in comparison with vestibuled cars, filthy second-class coaches. Of the thirty-five in the front car none in accounted for. From the second car about half were rescued. The bodies of the dead were buried so completely that the fragments are not only impossible to identify, but they cannot even be separated from one another as different human bodies.

The blame for the collision is placed on Conductor George M. Martin and Engineer A. E. Strong of the east-bound train No. 4, known as the Continental Limited. They had been ordered to stop for the west-bound train, No. 13, with which they collided, at Seneca, and to stop at Sand Creek, four and a half miles farther east, for another train. Consequently the train for the west was obeying orders and they were not.

Engineer Strong has been taken to Detroit, badly injured. He asserts positively that he was ordered to stop at Sand Creek and not at Seneca. That he either forgot his orders or misread them are the only two alternatives which Superintendent Barnes sees.

The disaster had its marvelous escapes as well as its fearful deaths. On the west-bound train the Italians became a victim's sacrifice for the passengers. In the six cars behind them. Their two trail coaches broke the force of the crash for the rear cars, and before the latter burned the occupants, little injured, got safely away.

As for the other train, the east-bound one, only one of its cars suffered severely. It was a day coach, between the smoker and the dining car. There is left besides the iron work just the roof of the car and some splinters. Its body has been utterly destroyed. It was at ten to fifteen passengers.

Some Miraculous Escapes.

Six were taken out dead; five were severely injured, and the others escaped almost miraculously, with slight bruises.

The engineers of the two trains knew what was coming when they were still three miles apart. The track between Adrian and Sand Creek is straight and clear. Each engineer saw the other's headlight and thought it waiting at the coming station for him. The east-bound train slowed from sixty-five to fifty miles an hour. The west-bound train was running at thirty miles.

The few miles of separation when the engineers realized the situation were cut down so quickly that they had barely time to reverse their engines and jump. The little margin of time saved the engineers, but not the firemen. The two firemen on the engines of the rear train both jumped too late, and were crushed to death.

The crash of the collision shook houses 300 yards away. The big mogul engine No. 600, east-bound, fairly ate up the little engine, No. 88, at the head of the other train. After this destruction of one engine and half of another, the big mogul reared backward, turned a half somersault, plowed a hole several feet deep in the ditch on the right side of the track and lay with her cupola toward the station from which she had just come, and her machinery shrieking and belching steam.

Fire Spread Rapidly.

The front cars of each train plied themselves upon the engines. The flames, whirled by the motion of the train, the light plant or the engine fire, had full possession almost on the instant. The burning passengers swarmed out, and rushed to the rescue of those imprisoned under car seats and broken beams in the burning cars. But those outside were as helpless to save as those inside were to escape. Five minutes and the fire was so hot that no one could approach within 300 or 400 feet.

Meantime rescuing parties, with ambulance trains, if they can be so styled, were hurrying toward the scene from Adrian, from Montpelier, Ohio, and from Peru, Ind. Two Pullman cars had been made into hospitals and were loaded back to Adrian. A score of injured were taken to Peru and many others to Detroit.

The loss to the railroad is placed by Superintendent Burns at $48,000.

The list of dead and injured given out by the railroad company is much smaller than the one above. It shows but ten dead and forty-eight injured.

COMMERCIAL AND FINANCIAL

Encouraging reports continue to come from all leading lines. Interior merchants have had a larger trade than anticipated, and dry goods houses are well supplied with resupplying orders for all classes of goods. The iron and steel jobbers for holiday goods have reached its maximum point, there will be enough buying to keep houses busy for the next two weeks. The buying of clothing of late has been the best ever witnessed at this season. Complaints still exist about the slowness of deliveries, but manufacturers are gradually catching up. Buying of iron and steel continues active in all lines and there is a great deal of speculation going on as to what effect it will have on future prices. There has been the largest tonnage of pig iron placed for delivery in 1902 that has ever been known at this season.

Dun's review says: Careful search discloses few unfavorable factors in the iron and steel situation. Probably the least satisfactory conditions are found at plate mills, which report an uneven distribution of orders. A few large concerns appear to secure the bulk of new business, but heavy orders for cars will largely expand the buying, while the new combination will put this class of mills on a stronger basis. It is certain that the great force on record is now engaged in the various departments of iron and steel making. Raw material at the South has advanced, but at central points pig iron is steady, though rapidly absorbed.

A review of the markets for the past week develops these facts: While sentiment has been favorable to better grain prices, the changes last week, as during the week before, were really not large or important, so accepting, perhaps, in preventing declines. Fluctuation, too, have been narrow, even though there has been a pretty fair speculative trade in all the cereals, much of it, however, local and professional, outside interest being only moderate.

Shipping and export demands for wheat have been relatively small, milling demands very fair, while for corn demands have come largely again from sections in the South, Southeast and Southwest, where the crop of 1901 was largely a failure. The best demands have been for oats and for this reason the grain has been relatively stronger than the others, best prices on the crop this far having been reached last week. Some little improvement in export demands were noted. The Western situation continues to be the factor in corn. It has not changed to any extent within a week, except that previous predictions of a scarcity are being confirmed. Fluctuating operations show that the yield is more disappointing as work progresses, and this may lead to a reduction in the estimates by the Agricultural Department in its final figures.

Provisions last week, after being weak and lower on heavy reports of heavy, suddenly started up and pork advanced nearly 1/2c a pound, and ribs 1/2c. The week's hog receipts were surprisingly heavy, being the largest at this season in ten years, and were the best of the year, aggregating 281,000, against 241,000 last year. At Western points there was also a big run, and receipts aggregated 620,000, compared with 548,000 the previous week, and were 98,000 more than last year.
